

Navigating Conversations in the Current Socio-Political Climate in Writing Centers

PANELISTS:

Drs. Eric Camarillo, Frankie Condon, Jasmine Tang & Talisha Morrison

MODERATORS:

Drs. Ashley Newby & Nicole Caswell

WHEN:

Friday, November 7th at 3 p.m. EST / 2 p.m. CST /
1 p.m. MST / 12 p.m. PST
This is a live event and will not be recorded.

TO REGISTER:

Scan the QR code

or access via bit.ly/owcawebinar

In today's polarized socio-political climate, writing centers continue to serve as vital spaces for dialogue, learning, and student support. At the same time, writing center professionals face growing challenges as they respond to shifting institutional landscapes and external pressures while remaining committed to their core values.

The Online Writing Centers Association (OWCA) is excited to bring together a panel of four distinguished scholars, whose critical and courageous voices have shaped the field. Their research highlights how writing centers can serve as brave spaces and contact zones, fostering authentic conversations about language and the evolving role of writing centers in higher education.

The panel conversation will be guided by moderators whose expertise in writing center scholarship and leadership will provide a strong foundation for drawing out the panelists' insights.